14 February 2014 // issue 293

In this issue we find out how the fantastic play The Curious Incident of the Dog in the Night-Time has made a series of special performances for local schools (p24).

One year on and Newham's innovative private property licensing scheme is making inroads into tackling rogue landlords (p14), while our key amnesty will see 26 properties returned to our housing register (p9).

We tell you how Newham Council is creating more opportunities for residents to get fit (p10) and how local clubs are being supported to upgrade their venues (p23).

We also have a round up of fantastic half term activities (p19) as well as five pages of activities in our ever popular What's On (p34).

IN BRIEF //

New clinic on sexual health

A screening clinic is to open at St John's Church in Broadway, Stratford, to offer free and confidential advice about sexual health.

The service from Barts Health NHS Trust and Newham Council enables people to be tested for sexually transmitted infections (STIs) and get advice on gonorrhoea, chlamydia, syphilis, HIV and hepatitis. No appointment is needed.

Councillor Clive Furness, executive member for health and adult commissioning, said: "This is the latest step in improving the accessibility of sexual health services for residents." For information about STIs visit www.nhs.uk

Tunnel works continue

Crossrail has started to demolish the former ticket hall next to the Old Station Museum, Pier Road, as part of construction work on underground tunnels between North Woolwich and Plumstead.

The ticket office was built in the 1970s and is not a listed building. The works will not affect the Old Station Museum, which is a Grade II listed building. Care will be taken to monitor any above ground disturbance using specialist equipment fitted to buildings.

If you have any questions or concerns about these works contact the Crossrail helpdesk on 0345 602 3813 or email helpdesk@crossrail.co.uk

Fraudster is jailed

An investigation by Newham Council has resulted in fraudster Matthew Monsey, 29, who conned money from private sector landlords being jailed for two-and-a-half years.

Inner London Crown Court heard how in 2010 Monsey falsely claimed to three landlords that he was employed by the council to conduct safety checks before issuing safety certificates for their rental properties. He charged for the certificates and the building work he said was necessary to receive them.

Monsey was convicted of three charges under the Fraud Act 2006 of making false representations with intent to gain.

Redevelopment plan for Boleyn Ground

West Ham United has announced that following a competitive bidding process, developers Galliard Group have reached an agreement to purchase the Boleyn Ground in Green Street, Upton Park, once the club moves to the Olympic Stadium in 2016.

The developers are expected to submit proposals to Newham Council that could transform the site into a residential and retail village with leisure facilities, underground parking and a Bobby Moore Memorial Garden.

Stephen Conway, chairman and chief executive of Galliard Group, said: "We plan to undertake extensive consultation with residents and businesses on the future of the site."

Mayor Sir Robin Wales said: "We have always maintained that West Ham United's relocation to Stratford had the potential to deliver an Olympic legacy beyond Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park as a key part of the comprehensive regeneration of Green Street and Upton Park. The prospect of much needed homes, jobs and community spaces for this area is an exciting one."

Counterfeit shirts are collared

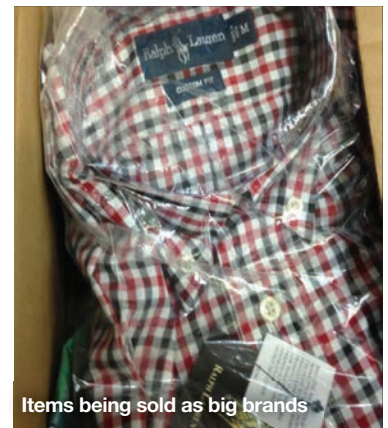

Newham Council's trading standards officers seized 74 fake Ralph Lauren shirts and 900 counterfeit DVDs when they swooped on shops in East Ham during the latest series of Operation Ohio enforcement raids.

Almost 4,000 counterfeit cigarettes were also seized as officers visited more than 100 premises in and around High Street North during a 48-hour period. The cash and carry store that stocked the items has been warned it could face prosecution.

Licensing officers seized a number of water bottles, which they believe contained alcohol from Romania that was not licensed for sale. The bottles have been sent away for analysis.

Operation Ohio is a regular enforcement programme across the borough as part of the council's commitment to deal with crime and anti-social behaviour.

Councillor Unmesh Desai, executive member for crime and anti-social behaviour, said: "Residents tell us tackling crime is a priority for them. We are listening – and responding."

Learning about Games success

The Mayor of the city where much of the 2020 Tokyo Olympics and Paralympics will be held knew exactly where to come when he wanted to learn more about hosting a successful Games.

Takaaki Yamazaki, Mayor of Koto City, which has eight arenas staging 14 sports in 2020, asked Mayor Sir Robin Wales for advice about venues, consultation with residents, infrastructure and legacy.

As a young student, Mr Yamazaki was an Olympic volunteer when Tokyo hosted the Games in 1964. Sir Robin presented the Mayor with a shirt and cap, as worn by Newham's volunteers during the 2012 Games.

Sir Robin said: "The 2012 Games were an important milestone in the development of Newham. I hope hosting the 2020 Games drives forward the regeneration agenda of Koto City. We are willing to help and advise as much as we can."

Pay up first time or face harsher penalty

A court has imposed financial penalties of almost £21,000 on 57 people who ignored fixed penalty notices from Newham Council for offences ranging from littering to urinating and lighting up cigarettes in smoke free areas.

The council prosecuted people who had ignored three earlier opportunities to pay penalties handed out under the Environmental Protection Act 1990 and the Health Act 2006.

Thames Magistrates Court heard all the defendants had had previous chances to pay, either at the time of issue of the fixed penalty notice, on receipt of a reminder letter or at the time of receiving a court summons.

Councillor Unmesh Desai, executive member for crime and anti-social behaviour, said: "Enforcement is not intended as a punishment but as a means of changing behaviour to enable us to improve the quality of life for residents. As these cases prove the amount you end up paying in court could far exceed the cost of the original fixed penalty notice."

Cheaper fares on Emirates Air Line cable car

Newham residents can now receive a reduced travel rate on the Emirates Air Line, the UK's first urban cable car which spans the River Thames between the borough and Greenwich.

From 14 February until the end of 2014, passengers who produce proof of residence will receive a 50 per cent reduction on return fares. The offer applies to cash fares and pay as you go Oyster fares. Up to three guests can also receive the discount.

Councillor Alec Kellaway, executive member for business and skills, said: "This is a fantastic offer for residents and one we hope they'll use. We want to see more people visiting the Royal Docks as our vision is to turn it into a world-class business and leisure destination."

To receive the discount, residents must show proof of residence in the form of a document such as a Council Tax bill. The offer excludes the Easter holiday and July and August.

The show must go on

The show must go on! It is a well known phrase in show business circles and one that now means an awful lot to young people in Newham.

For six weeks the West End production of the play The Curious Incident of the Dog in the Night-Time had been without a home following a much publicised ceiling collapse during a performance.

“Being able to offer such a fantastic opportunity to introduce children to the magic of the theatre and develop their potential for learning, shows perfectly what Newham’s Every Child a Theatre Goer campaign is all about”

Thankfully there were no fatalities. The Apollo Theatre was badly damaged and had to be closed. For six weeks the play had been homeless, until we stepped in. Working with The National Theatre and Theatre Royal Stratford East we were able to offer a wonderful opportunity for the show to go on in a very different setting.

The main hall at Stratford Old Town Hall, more known for council meetings, wedding parties and functions, was transformed into a temporary theatre in the round. Nine lunchtime performances by the original West End cast were watched by up to 250 pupils from our secondary schools each day for free.

I was there on day one as youngsters from Cumberland and Royal Docks schools filed into the hall not really knowing what to expect. As a I told journalists from the national media, some of the kids had never been to the theatre before, let alone had heard of the National. For two-and-a-half hours they were transfixed. In fact, some were speechless.

For Newham Council, being able to offer such a fantastic opportunity to introduce children to the magic of the theatre and develop their potential for learning shows perfectly what Newham’s Every Child a Theatre Goer campaign, launched last September, is all about.

We are funding theatre visits for every Year 5 child in the borough’s primary schools and all the borough’s secondary pupils in each year group, starting with shows at Stratford Circus, pantomime and going on to shows at Theatre Royal Stratford East and

Sir Robin and pupils from Cumberland School, E13

Mayor's view

Shakespeare's Globe Theatre.

Never in my wildest dreams did I ever expect the National to be involved so early in our campaign, and certainly not with a play that won a record seven Olivier Awards last year. To have a theatre of this calibre wanting to be in Newham is just fantastic.

Newham's Every Child a Theatre Goer programme will keep on giving our children access to world-class theatre productions such as this. I believe theatre can stir the imagination of our young people, stimulate their curiosity and ignite their artistic impulses while complementing more traditional learning opportunities.

"We have high aspirations for our children and young people and are committed to supporting them to succeed"

It continues to be an important part of Newham's Every Child programme, funded by us and delivered with the enthusiastic support of schools, ensuring young people have a good mix of academic and social education.

We have high aspirations for our children and young people and are committed to supporting them to succeed. Be it supplying free school meals, helping them with their reading, offering an opportunity to learn a musical instrument, or try a new sport, our programme provides a wealth of opportunities to inspire them to achieve their potential and increase their confidence and social skills.

I want to thank the National Theatre and Theatre Royal Stratford East for their commitment to giving our children the best possible start in life. I wish the play well when it resumes its West End run in June at the Gielgud Theatre.

"... our programme provides a wealth of opportunities to inspire them to achieve their potential and increase their confidence and social skills"

Unlocking illegal sub lets

Twenty-six homes are in the process of being returned to the council following a two month key amnesty - with a further six under investigation.

Under the amnesty, tenants were given until 3 January to hand back the keys to council homes they had left vacant or illegally sublet. The council has already recovered 19 of the 26 homes which will be relet.

According to figures from the Audit Commission, the 26 homes returned to the council will save Newham's taxpayer almost £2m.

During the amnesty, almost 50 people contacted the council, some to voluntarily hand back their keys, others to report illegal subletting.

Tenants who admitted to subletting were given time to vacate the property. All leads are being followed up by housing investigation officers. Anyone found subletting from now on will be subject to action under the Prevention of Social Housing Fraud Act 2013.

The Act, which became law last October, means tenancy fraud is now a criminal offence and punishable by a custodial sentence of up to two years and a £5,000 fine. It also gives the council power to recover profits made from fraud.

Newham Council regularly carries out rigorous audit checks. Photographs of more than 11,000 tenants have been added to our tenancy database so we can identify who is accessing our blocks. All fobs for a block are also regularly deactivated and can only be re-instated by the named tenant of the property. Councillor Andrew Baikie, executive member for housing and customer service, said: "Social housing exists for those who need it most. It's unacceptable that people that no longer need this support are shamelessly profiteering from social housing and depriving those who are in most need of a home.

"Tenancy fraud costs the council millions of pounds and robs residents, who may have been on the housing register for years, of a home. Bringing these properties back into our housing stock frees them up for someone on the council's waiting list."

If you have a tenancy with the council but live elsewhere and sublet the property to another person you are committing fraud. Tenancy fraud also includes providing false information when applying for housing and illegally applying to succeed a tenancy of someone who has died. If caught and convicted you could end up in prison.

If you are aware of anyone committing these offences call 020 3373 3258, 020 3373 3261 or email HSG-tenancy.audit@newham.gov.uk in confidence.

Multi-million-pound sports investment

As part of Newham Council's commitment to providing the best sports and fitness opportunities to inspire our residents to get out and get active, over the next two years a massive £20m is being invested into sports and fitness improvements across the borough.

Maybury Multi Use Games Area (MUGA) has been built on previously derelict, fly-tipped land behind Newham Leisure Centre.

Working in partnership with the council, Cumberland School in Plaistow developed the space, which opened last year. It contains a running track and a range of outdoor gym equipment and provides additional outdoor space for Cumberland and Tollgate schools.

Outside school hours, the site is accessible to residents using Newham Leisure Centre and will support local community sports programmes.

Sir Robin with local councillors and Cumberland School staff and students

In preparation for Rugby World Cup 2015, Memorial Park, West Ham, will become Newham's heartland for rugby development. Changing facilities, pitches and floodlighting at Memorial Park are set to be improved so schools, clubs and residents can maximise the once-in-a-lifetime opportunity the World Cup represents.

Subject to planning approval, work will be undertaken by Newham Council and East London Community Sports Association, in partnership with the Rugby Football Union. Work on the pitches is set to begin in March, with the project expected to be completed by the end of the year.

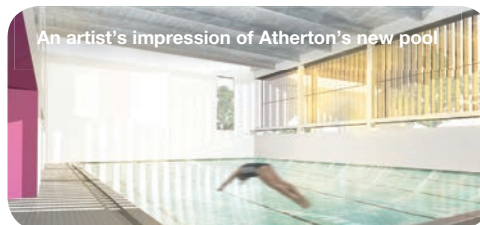

Children playing rugby at Newham Leisure Centre

Atherton Leisure Centre is being replaced with a brand new leisure centre which will provide a first-class environment for residents of all ages and abilities to get active and stay healthy.

Work has begun on the £14.7m centre which will include two swimming pools, a group cycling studio, a state-of-the-art gym and fitness studios.

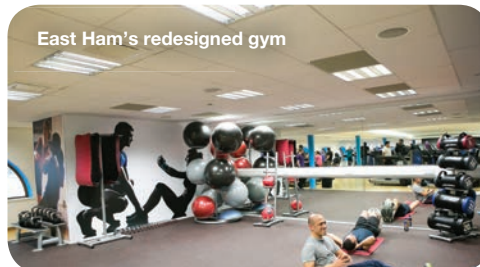

There will be step-free access across the new centre, which will house a six-lane, 25 metre main pool. The gym will be 50 per cent bigger than the current gym, with modern equipment. There will also be an on site crèche and a soft play area.

An artist's impression of Atherton's new pool

East Ham Leisure Centre has recently been given a £400,000 makeover with a redesigned gym with new, state-of-the-art exercise equipment and a new group cycling studio.

Dry changing areas have been revamped with new benches and lighting. The showers have been upgraded and the tiling, ceilings and fittings have been replaced. The popular health suite has also been refurbished and redecorated.

East Ham's redesigned gym

Work is under way to create a new budget gym at the site of the former Greenhill Centre in Manor Park.

Plans are being drawn up by the council and its leisure provider, activeNewham, to convert it into a high quality, affordable, indoor fitness centre for residents in the local area. The centre is expected to open in the autumn.

The former Curwen Centre in Plaistow is being renovated to create a bespoke boxing centre and provide a new home for West Ham Boxing Club.

The club's move has been supported by Newham Council and Sport England so they can continue and expand the excellent work they do for the community. The club is expected to move into their new home in Spring 2014.

The council is supporting the extension of a new Watersports Centre, which will form part of the existing rowing centre at Royal Albert Dock. It will be turned into a combined watersports centre offering sailing, canoeing and rowing.

Last summer more than 2,500 Newham residents took part in watersports; the completion of this project is expected to see that number rise significantly.

The project brings together the existing owners Royal Albert Dock Trust in a collaboration between Newham Council, London Youth Rowing and Sport England. The current centre will continue to operate while work is undertaken, with the extension expected to reach completion in summer 2015.

A £1.3m Heritage Lottery Grant will see major improvements start to take place at Plashet Park, East Ham, start this summer.

Refurbishments include path resurfacing, improved park entrances, new play equipment, improvement works to the surroundings of the Register Office, new toilets and repairs to the café.

Fight for Peace, based in the Royal Docks, combine boxing and martial arts with education, employment training and personal development to help young people to realise their potential.

The organisation will see its current buildings upgraded and expanded, as well as the construction of new areas which will help them broaden their current work and allow them to make a positive social impact on the lives of more young people.

Attention parents!

Free early education for two-year-olds

Newham London

Your child may be entitled to up to 15 hours of free early education per week, starting the term after their second birthday, if you receive one of the following:

- Income Support
- Income-based Jobseeker's Allowance (JSA)
- Income-related Employment and Support Allowance (ESA)
- Support through part 6 of the Immigration and Asylum Act
- the guaranteed element of State Pension Credit
- Child Tax Credit (but not Working Tax Credit) and have an annual income not over £16,190, or
- your child is looked after by the council or have a child protection plan.

From April 2014, you are also eligible if you receive:

- Working Tax Credits and earn no more than £16,190 a year
- Disability Living Allowance or
- your child has a current statement of special educational needs (SEN) or an education, health and care plan or
- left care through special guardianship or an adoption or residence order.

Provide • your name • date of birth • National Insurance number and find out NOW if you are eligible by contacting the Early Intervention Central Team on 020 3373 0980 or email twoyearold.childcare@newham.gov.uk visit newham.gov.uk/twoyearold.childcare

Give your child a free head start

If you have a two-year-old child and receive benefits or are on a low income, you could be eligible for 15 hours a week free early years education. From this April the eligibility criteria will be broadened. This means almost two in five children will be eligible for a free place.

Sadia Makimera from Canning Town is mother to two boys.

Julian (pictured) started attending Edith Kerrison Nursery and Children's Centre in September.

Sadia's eldest son had been diagnosed with autism and she found it difficult to cope. She said: "My son has non-verbal autism and does not speak. Over the few weeks when he was diagnosed it was tough. It was a lonely journey. I had no one to turn to.

"I wanted to help other parents as their child is diagnosed with a disability and their journey into the unknown begins. When Julian started at the nursery I used this time to set up a support group for parents and carers looking after children with special needs."

Sadia did not know two-year-old Julian was eligible for 15 hours a week of nursery education until she saw a leaflet in the children's centre. She said: "I thought your child had to be three to get a nursery place. Since I found out otherwise I've been telling everyone I come across.

"I have seen a lot of changes in Julian. Because his brother is non-verbal he wasn't learning anything from him, they just used to babble all day. Now we can talk together, his language has improved and he is learning new things. I am glad that he has had the chance to get this education earlier."

As well as the support group for parents of children with special needs, Sadia has recently become a parent governor at Edith Kerrison Nursery and Children's Centre. She said: "I have had tremendous help from the staff at the children's centre. I shared my idea and they were quick to support it – and me."

PUTTING AN END TO H

Vulnerable tenants living in squalid, unsafe environments will soon be a thing of the past thanks to Newham Council's Private Rented Property Licensing (PRPL) scheme. In just one year, massive improvements have been made to Newham's rental market as unscrupulous landlords are held to account.

Newham is the first council in the country to introduce borough-wide private rented property licensing. The scheme was set up to stamp out the crime and anti-social behaviour associated with the poor management of rental properties and drive up the standard of poorly maintained rental homes.

A happy ending for one home

A property in Plaistow licensed to house one family was discovered to be home to more than 12 people living in appalling conditions.

Housing enforcement officers from Newham Council encountered dreadful scenes when they visited the three-bedroom property early one morning in September last year following complaints of anti-social behaviour from neighbours and the tenants themselves.

According to reports, one of the tenants had sublet the property to many others. To hide the number of people at the property, tenants were forced to enter and exit from the back of the house.

People were shoehorned into every available space, with three beds in the hallway divided by curtains. As well as rising damp and filthy conditions, the property had cockroach and rodent infestations. Neighbour Chris Dobric said: "It was really awful. People were coming and going at all hours of the day and night. There was a lot of furniture dumped in the back garden and we started getting mice. Thankfully, things have changed now."

When threatened with enforcement action, the landlord, who claimed to know nothing of the subletting and conditions at the house, took swift action. Within eight weeks, the property was completely refurbished including a new kitchen and bathroom.

Letting rules for tenants

Thanks to property licensing, Newham tenants have more rights and protection than elsewhere in London.

Every landlord with property in Newham has to have a licence. Without this they cannot end a tenancy, as the landlord has to produce the licence or proof that they have applied for a licence as part of the possession court proceedings.

Your landlord must provide you with a written tenancy agreement which clearly sets out rent payable, any other charges, tenant's rights and details of which approved Government deposit scheme they are using. You should also be shown where all the smoke alarms are located, copies of current gas certificates and a copy of the property licence. The licence will specify how many people can live in the property. They must also provide their contact details so that tenants can report problems with their accommodation which need attention.

If your landlord does not have a licence for your property you may be able to claim back some or all of your rent. For more information on the scheme and to check if your home has a licence visit www.newham.gov.uk/propertylicensing

Councillor Andrew Baikie, executive member for housing and customer service, said: "The PRPL scheme has rooted out bad landlords that think housing people in unacceptable conditions is acceptable. As well as the exploited tenants, neighbours and neighbourhoods suffer from the effects of poor quality housing and overcrowding, including increased waste, flytipping and other anti-social behaviour. Newham's Private Rented Property Licensing scheme is a blueprint for other local authorities to follow."

It is against the law for any landlord to let a property in Newham without having made a licence application. If found guilty they could be fined up to £20,000 and be liable to repay rent received. To report a property that you suspect is not licensed email propertylicensing@newham.gov.uk or call 020 3373 1950.

Since the scheme:

- > 30,000 property licences issued
- > £264,000 per year in Council Tax recovered from landlords
- > 245 arrests made during joint licensing visits with the police
- > 165 enforcement cases taken against landlords
- > £0 of your Council Tax spent.

London Borough of Newham School admission arrangements consultation

We are consulting on the school admission arrangements to our community and voluntary controlled primary schools for entry from September 2015.

As Langdon Academy uses our admission arrangements, the school will also be included in the consultation.

We would like to know what you think about all our admission arrangements, but in particular our oversubscription criteria (admission rules). This is what we use to decide who gets a place if there are more applicants than places available.

Any changes we make because of this consultation will apply for all applications for the school year 2015/16.

Tell us what you think

To see the proposed admissions arrangements visit: www.newham.gov.uk
You have until 5pm Friday 28 February to tell us what you think. We will not consider any responses we receive after this time.

If you have any comments about community and voluntary controlled schools and Langdon Academy, send them to:

We will widely publish all school admission arrangements after they have been determined (approved). The documents will be available by 1 May 2014.

Don't be a cupid fool

when it comes to safer sex

With February comes Valentine's Day (also known as Think About Sex Day), putting romance and relationships in the spotlight and heralding the perfect time of year to think about sexual health.

Whether you're sexually active or not, it's important to be aware of your own sexual health and that of any potential partners.

East London has one of the highest rates of sexually transmitted infections (STIs) in the UK and many of these have no symptoms. Monte Fields, sexual health advisor at Newham University Hospital, said: "Chlamydia and gonorrhoea are the two most common STIs in the UK. The best way to prevent becoming infected is to practise safer sex by using a condom.

"Many STIs don't have any symptoms, so many cases remain undetected. Chlamydia in particular, if left untreated, can cause serious reproductive health problems."

The Greenway Centre at Newham University Hospital, run by Barts Health

NHS Trust, offers a confidential 'walk-in and wait' service with no need to make an appointment. Every year more than 18,500 local people are given a range of advice, free contraception, STI testing and treatment. The team can also help if you think you were recently in contact with HIV and offer follow-up care.

Newham has one of the highest rates of HIV in England with people three times as likely to have HIV compared to the average for England. Nowadays, with early diagnosis and medical treatment, most HIV positive patients can have a life expectancy the same as everyone else's.

The Greenway Centre at Newham University Hospital, Glen Road, E13, is open from Monday to Friday at varying hours. Call 020 7363 8146. Visit the Barts

Health website for more information
www.bartshealth.nhs.uk/sexual-health

A new STI screening service has been launched by Newham Council and Barts Health NHS Trust on Tuesdays, from 10am-2pm at St John's Church, Stephen's Room, Broadway, E15. There is no need to make an appointment. For more information about STI screening at St John's call 020 7363 8008 or 020 7363 8145.

Do you live in Newham and want to teach a musical instrument?

The Mayor of Newham offers a ground-breaking programme called Newham's Every Child a Musician, which provides free music tuition in schools to children aged nine to 12. As part of the programme, Newham Council helps talented local musicians to become music tutors through our Local Tutor Training Programme.

- > Can you play an orchestral instrument, the guitar or keyboard to a high standard?
- > Do you want to develop your teaching skills and experience so that you can become a music tutor?

If the answer is yes, then the FREE part-time Local Tutor Training Programme could provide you with a pathway to rewarding employment opportunities.

The next course runs from 27 February to 28 June and involves three one-day workshops taking place on a monthly basis. For more information about course content, application and interview dates, call 020 3373 0481 or email ecam.tutor@newham.gov.uk

Granting wishes

Sometimes local clubs or community groups need a little extra support to get the best out of what they do. That is why Go For It grants were set up by Newham Council. One club to benefit is Stratford Judokai.

Mick Foulger of Stratford Judo Club applied for a Go For It grant after the club's matting needed replacing.

Mick explained: "All our coaches are qualified, but we are volunteers. So we need funding to keep us going. Our other mats were very old, we were sustaining injuries. We needed new mats but just couldn't afford them."

After the 2012 Games, matting from the judo competition was offered up for clubs to bid for. To buy new matting to fit out the dojo would have cost more than £10,000. The 'once used' matting cost half that, but the club was still short of the money they needed.

With the help of match funding from the British Judo Association, Mick applied for and got a Go For It grant from Newham.

Mick says the matting has made a huge difference: "Now you can get thrown about without getting up with aches, pains and bruises. It's a contact sport, so you have got to have safety."

The new matting has also made the dojo accessible for disabled people to try judo. Other groups like after-school clubs are able to use it as a safe play area. The matting has also helped increase club numbers and young club member Hayley Willis is now hotly tipped to represent Britain at the Rio 2016 Olympic Games.

If people want to try out judo at Stratford Judokai, the first lesson is free and they will even loan you a gi (judo suit) for the first few times. Beginners classes are on Wednesdays at the Docklands Centre, 98 Gibbins Road, E15. Call 07985 601 260 for more information.

Go For It grants give funding for not-for-profit projects and regular activities that can bring communities together. They can provide funding of up to £2,000. For more information visit www.newham.gov.uk/grants

A curious incident at the town hall

Whether you've read the book or not, The Curious Incident of the Dog in the Night-Time has come to be known as a literary great. After its run at the Apollo Theatre ended last year, and before the play moves to its new home at the Gielgud Theatre, the team took the production out of Theatreland and into Newham's Old Town Hall, Stratford.

Playwright Simon Stephens joined Newham schoolchildren for one of nine performances of the critically acclaimed production, shown as part of Newham's Every Child a Theatre Goer (ECaTG) programme.

The play, based on a novel by Mark Haddon, tells the story of Christopher, a 15-year-old boy whose obsession with a murdered dog transforms his life.

With more than 25 scripts to his name, Simon is one of England's cutting-edge playwrights. His love for writing stems from his childhood and he doesn't recall a time when he didn't write. He said: "My introduction to drama came from television. Writers like Dennis Potter were writing for screen and stage. It was only when I went to university that I really came across the idea of serious drama on stage. Theatre can combine the energy of live music and the human truth of drama. That's fundamentally all I have ever tried to do – 22 years later I'm still trying."

While Simon was resident dramatist at the National Theatre he met author Mark Haddon. When two talented wordsmiths collide only good things can happen. He said: "We're similar ages, we've children about the same age and we both wish we were in bands rather than being writers.

"In early 2008 I got a phone call from him asking if I'd like to adapt the novel for the stage. He'd been approached with a lot of offers. After it was suggested as a musical he thought he better take responsibility and choose somebody to do it. He trusted me and let me get on with it."

What ensued was the creation of Simon's second Olivier award-winning play, which the modest playwright brushes away saying: "Awards are flattering and they represent the spirit behind a company and a show. To say one play is better than another is tricky as everything is so subjective.”

Bringing the show to Old Town Hall was a collaborative effort with Newham Council, Theatre Royal and the National Theatre, where the production originally premiered.

Almost 2,000 Newham secondary school students watched the play during the fortnight of shows. Simon said: “I love the East End, for me it’s proper London. There’s a real energy to Stratford and a real energy to Newham that I think is really true to the spirit of London.

“The point of these shows is to celebrate theatre, its possibilities, its audience and the love of Mark’s book. What’s extraordinary about this experience is that the audience are getting the West End cast, West End production and the best director in Britain directing these actors for free in their town hall. That’s pretty amazing.”

A former East End teacher, Simon’s passion for ensuring students, and others, have access to theatre echo some of the aims of Newham’s ECaTG. He said: “Having access to theatre reminds us that we’re human. The theatre, more than any other art form, reminds us of humanity and what it’s like to be alive. It’s the perfect forum for getting people to ask questions about what it is to be alive. And there is no one more philosophically searching than teenagers.”

Workplace: getting you better jobs

Workplace, Newham Council's employment service, ensures that Newham residents are first in line whenever jobs are available and that they have the skills to secure the kind of employment that could turn into a lifelong career.

Workplace can provide support and advice to enhance your career including:

- finding the right job
- work-related training
- boosting your skills with work experience and volunteering
- business start up advice
- CV masterclasses.

One of the unique features of Workplace is that they can give you the training and the skills to do the job before you apply for roles, which means that when it comes to the interview you already know that you are the candidate to beat.

For more details drop into one of Workplace's offices in Stratford or Canning Town, call 020 8430 4331 or visit www.newhamworkplace.co.uk

Workplace is a one-stop-shop where Newham residents can get advice about employment, training or starting their own business. It's also where employers go when they want to recruit quality staff.

Mayor Sir Robin Wales said: "Since opening in 2007, Workplace has helped 20,000 residents into work. In Newham we invest in people and that is why our residents are always at the front of the line to get the job."

Looking for work?

If you are looking for work, go along to the careers fair at Newham College, East Ham Campus, High Street South, E6, on Tuesday 4 March from 12noon-4pm. There will be a wide range of employers present as well as advice about careers and information, on education, training and apprenticeships.

Bernardette Whyte has been a Newham resident for 25 years. She first contacted Workplace after being a stay at home mum for 18 months. She said: "I just dropped in because I pass it everyday. I was assigned an advisor who asked me what skills I had, what I was interested in and then helped me put a CV together."

Bernardette was looking for work in admin, but struggled to find the part-time position she wanted. Before Christmas in 2012 Workplace helped her get a part-time retail job at John Lewis. Bernardette said: "The manager liked my work and I've been there more than a year." At the same time, she continued to do vocational qualifications and placements through Workplace that would equip her for jobs in the health sector. This culminated with an NVQ Level 2. Bernardette said: "Once I got the qualification I got two interviews and was offered both jobs." She has now taken a part-time admin post at Barts Health NHS Trust starting at the end of February. Bernardette says: "Workplace is just brilliant. They are very encouraging, have given me a lot of support and helped me all the way. They are a lovely group of people."

Isaac Tetteh had been out of work for nearly a year. He happened to be passing by Workplace in Stratford so he dropped in to see what they could do for him. He signed up and was pleasantly surprised. Isaac said: "Within a week Workplace had called me with job offers and within a month I had found a position."

Isaac worked in security during the 2012 Games and was supported by Workplace to complete a Security Industry Authority (SIA) qualification. At the same time he continued to receive more job offers from Workplace. He took a temporary contract with London Overground and while there trained in customer service and revenue protection. He has recently accepted a position with STM Security in Stratford who check tickets on London Overground trains. Isaac said: "I think Workplace is brilliant. The advisors are very helpful. They even got me an Oyster Card to get to an interview when I couldn't afford one. Most importantly, they keep sending you job offers and they make sure that you find work."

Do the right thing – don't rubbish where you live, don't rubbish Newham.

We all have a personal responsibility for what we do with our rubbish. Putting litter in the bin is a non-optional social obligation. There's nothing good about littering and those caught littering are fined.

Since April 2013 we have given out 5,920 fixed penalty notices for littering.

Take-away rubbish is making our streets a mess. You know it's not right. Don't be a polluter. Don't expect other people to clear up after you. We don't need litter lying everywhere – do the right thing – put it in the bin.

A little bit of litter goes a long way. Newham has more than 375km of roads and pavements to be cleaned every day. Almost £12 million of your money a year is spent on cleaning streets and picking up litter.

People say that there's nothing they can do, but that's not true, just do the right thing and put your rubbish in the bin.

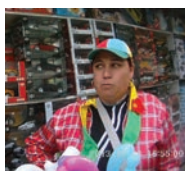

It's not cool to be a throw away fool. The pictures on this page show people who are responsible for dropping litter and other forms of anti-social behaviour. If you recognise anyone please call 020 3373 4479 and quote the reference number beside the picture.

Ensuring your anonymity

Newham Council is committed to tackling crime and anti-social behaviour in partnership with the police and other agencies. If you provide information regarding identities:

- you will not be required to leave your contact details
- you will not have to make a statement

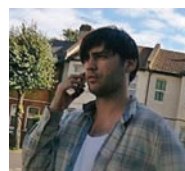

Don't put up with rubbish.

Win tickets to Momo

From Michael Ende, the author of The Neverending Story, comes Momo, a cult fantasy novel adapted for the stage, showing at Stratford Circus next month.

Momo is a thrilling fusion of dazzling vocals, original songs, puppetry and storytelling.

Momo's new home has been invaded. The Men in Grey are taking her friends away... by stealing their time. As the world starts to run faster and faster and her friends disappear, Momo must defeat this shadowy enemy.

To be in with the chance of winning a family ticket (two adults, two children) to Momo answer this question: Which of these is not a fantasy novel?

1. Lord of the Rings
2. Alice in Wonderland
3. The Oxford English Dictionary

Email your answer, name, address and telephone number to newham.mag@

newham.gov.uk or send it to Newham Mag, Newham Dockside, 1000 Dockside Road, London, E16 2QU by Monday 24 February.

Momo* is showing at Stratford Circus, Theatre Square, E15 from 28 to 29 March.

Tickets cost £8 (£6 concs) or £24 for a family ticket. To book call the box office on 0844 357 2625 or visit www.stratford-circus.com

Newham Woodcraft Folk are 80

Newham Woodcraft Folk are spending a whole year celebrating their 80th birthday.

The popular children's organisation is inviting members and friends old and new to join in on their 80 great things challenge, which will run throughout 2014.

The first of the 80 greats was launched in January with an eight mile muddy walk across Wanstead Flats to Hollow Pond with 20 adults and children, followed by outdoor art activities.

Jack Walker, member of the Woodcraft Folk, said "In this special birthday year we want to share our wonderful activities with other people in Newham."

The next of the Woodcraft folk's 80 greats are:

- a ceilidh with live music and dancing, Saturday 8 March, 5.30-9.30pm at Durning Hall, Forest Gate, E7
- A sponsored sleep out to raise money for rough sleepers on Friday 14 March.
